CONFERENCE THEME

The future has already happened

Do you remember when the idea of people flying was just a phantasmagorical concept in fiction novels? Or when the communicator from Star Trek was merely a prop? A humanoid robot, seamlessly interacting with people, was once only seen in movies. The future, once predicted, has now become our present and continues to unfold today. Step by step, bit by bit, we are pushing the limits of technology and human ingenuity. The unthinkable and crazy ideas born today are the technology of tomorrow.

Be a part of it—share your research, or simply come and discuss your wildest ideas and dreams in a community of like-minded people. Where else can you experience this blend of history, present, and future? Nowhere else does it merge into an atmosphere quite like Prague, the heart of Europe.

Join us and witness the future happening again!
